June 6-9, 2011 in St. Paul, Minnesota

Conference location: The Crowne Plaza
Riverfront, St. Paul, Minnesota

The AAIDD 135th Annual Meeting, Inclusive Communities: Pathways to Realizing the Vision, provided leading practitioners, researchers, teaching faculty, policymakers, funders, and advocates with effective and emerging practices, cutting edge research, and valuable information on important policy initiatives. The conference featured plenary sessions, panel and poster presentations, interactive cafés, task force and special interest group meetings, and networking events. Pre- and post-conference workshops addressed special topics in depth.

AAIDD Mission Statement

AAIDD 135th Annual Meeting in Minnesota

“From Advocates’ Perspectives”

On June 6th through June 9th, advocates from Helping Hands Self-Advocacy at Community Access Unlimited participated in the AAIDD 135th Annual Meeting in Saint Paul, Minnesota, where they learned about various innovations regarding inclusion, advocating for equal rights, and making connections to increase awareness of issues faced by people with disabilities.

According to Sid Katz, president of Helping Hands Self-Advocacy, “the conference was a great way to connect with other people”. Sid has been a member of AAIDD for twenty years, and is currently working to gain a fellowship with the organization. He is also running for the Board of the AAIDD New Jersey Chapter. He found the workshops regarding self-advocacy and quality of life especially helpful for use in his everyday life as an advocate. Sid was also able to make connections with various leaders, like past AAIDD President Valerie Bradley, who would like have Sid join the Self-Advocacy Panel Board to increase awareness within the self-advocacy movement.

New Jersey AAIDD Meeting

The NJAAIDD will hold its next meeting at 3:30 PM on Thursday, October 20, 2011 at the Main Hall of Community Access Institute, 88 West Grand Street, Elizabeth, NJ. Tel. (908) 354-3040; website www.caunj.org.

The Agenda will include developing a training/workshop schedule for the new year as well as receiving nominations from the floor for the new officers for the NJAAIDD.

We look forward to seeing you there.

“From Advocates’ Perspectives”

Mark Bloom, 1st Vice President of Helping Hands, who also attended has a similar perspective. Mark truly enjoyed networking with various presenters and found every opportunity to hand out business cards. He spoke to a lot of people regarding the closing of institutions and his work in advocating for the closure of Vineland Developmental Center. One contact that really stands out in Mark’s mind was connecting with Dr. Michael L. Wehmeyer who is the current president of AAIDD. He was so excited to discuss current issues with him. Mark also enjoyed participating in the Story of Self-Advocacy Pageant, noting that he thought it was a great effort to promote advocacy for all people with disabilities. The Pageant portrayed individual policies and pieces of legislation that have helped move self-advocacy to the forefront. Throughout the presentation, it was shown how self-advocacy has been successful, but also how there is still much opposition to the movement. The audience was reminded that oppression never stops, but with continued positive support from people and organizations that help to build self-advocacy up, we will continue to move forward giving people with disabilities more opportunity. Attending the conference helped Mark to feel more confident as he continues to advocate for himself and other members.

Marcella Truppa, Treasurer of Helping Hands, really enjoyed the conference as well. The highlight of the conference for her was also participating in the Story of Self-Advocacy pageant. Marcella believes that jobs, closing institutions, and shredding the R-Word are very important issues and the pageant promoted all of these. She was reminded that “all people have a voice”, and all she learned at the conference will help her continue to have her own voice as she continues her work with Helping Hands.

Michelle Bartolucci, Secretary of the group, was glad she attended the conference. She was happy to see “all people with disabilities come together to do good for the self-advocacy movement”. She met too many people to name, but she knows that those encounters will stick with her as she does her own advocacy work in the community.

Self-advocacy has been praised for helping make some real changes at legislative levels. Helping Hands advocates are very lucky to be able to take part in such an important movement. Their continued efforts shine through on a local and national level everyday as good things are happening. The relationships that they were able to make at this year’s AAIDD Meeting show just how important it is to network in the community and advocate for equal rights. All members of Helping Hands agreed that this was one of the best conferences they had ever attended.
